Capable and Microsoft

Capable is now gearing up for Official Microsoft Approval. This type of recognition is reserved by Microsoft for only those products that meet their strict criteria. Microsoft Approval means that testers at the VeriTest Laboratories in the U.S.A. have gone over the product with a fine tooth comb. They measure the quality of the product as well as its conformity with Microsoft Windows 95 and Windows NT standards.

We are also preparing our initial diagnosis of the new Microsoft Office 97 product which will be released early next year. We'll keep you informed about compatibility and any advantage you may gain from upgrading to the newest Microsoft products.

Enhancements

Since September, we've continued to develop key features to add to the extensive suite already available with Capable. Here is a few more of those enhancements:

- We've added features to allow you to specifically match up payments and visits. This gives you great control over the tracking of a patient's account.
- We've done some extensive work to the appointment book to make it faster and more robust.
- We've added utilities to import patient data from more of our competitor's packages.
- We've added a detailed patient scheduling tool. To try it out, right click a patient on the appointment book and choose scheduling.
- We've added more fields to the patient details windows allowing you to record more information about your patients.
- We dramatically improved the appearance of our printed appointment book and printed schedule.
- You can now record school holidays as well as public holidays.
- There are more patient tracking features including reminders and thank you letters for referees.

In addition to these advantages, a number of small problems have been corrected and many small enhancements have been coded to make the software easier and friendlier for users.

The Impressive Internet

The internet has proven to be our greatest asset so far. It allows immediate download of the latest features as well as access to our documentation and other utilities. We're extending and improving our web site every week and we'd like to extend it even more in the future.

All of our responses to client queries are issued by fax. They are prepared on our office computer and we've kept them for our own records. Now, we'd like to assemble them into a knowledge base for all our clients to use. If we've faxed information to you that you'd like us to withhold from the knowledge base, let us know as we'll be compiling this knowledge base over the next few weeks.

Year 2000 looms

The year 2000 is rapidly approaching and many software vendors are going to experience problems when January 1, 2000 comes around. The Y2C problem (as it is also known) is well documented in the computer industry but many software houses have chosen to ignore its ramifications.

You'll be happy to know that Capable is carefully designed to handle the year 2000 and won't even skip a beat when the time comes to change the century.

Why Microsoft®?

(this segment copied from Capable Communications Volume 1.1)

We've had a few people ask us why we've adopted Microsoft as our business partner. The answer is simple. Microsoft is the biggest and the best. Microsoft products are used in over 94% of the world's PCs. Their products are easy to use and have the feature range to cover almost everyone's needs. You can produce better quality results in a shorter amount of time with the latest Microsoft products. As proof, we offer you this newsletter. This document was prepared with Microsoft Word 7.0 in about an hour and a half.
